
Outdoor Project is an online resource for outdoor adventure and a Portland, Ore. based startup, non-profit, and community that went live in May of 2013. Essentially we've taken the traditional guidebook model, think 100 hikes in the Sierras, and moved it online, and made it way more badass. . . with a clean and easy user interface, inspirational photography and video, completely custom maps, obsessively detailed and critical information, trustworthy write-ups, and dynamic social features. At this point we have nearly 1,800 adventures and are constantly adding more. Hiking, camping, swimming holes, snowshoeing, hot springs, etc. . . you name it, we cover it. There is something for everyone, adventures for all ability levels. Ultimately our mission is to get people outside, a lot!; exploring, and getting to know and care about this phenomenal place we call planet earth.
