I have: a lot of potential, the house on 10+ acres in Colchester with possibility to develop, a few published and unpublished booklets, some products design that may be marketable, Parkinson's disease, a tenant who does not pay rent

I do not have: money, energy due to PD to utilize possibilities, that the land, booklets and special skills I have may offer.

My problem is that I have more projects than a healthy person can manage, An ideal situation would be creating a group of people that would approach the pile of my projects as a hobby having fun in the process; having barbecue, playing horse shoe, racing go karts in Montreal, discuss philosophy, history, politics, ; I write about these topics in my booklets. FYI: I wrote these booklets when I was still.
