These are questions that will never ever be asked of Hillary because the media has been informed not to do so. However, questions such as this will be asked of Republican candidates.

Media bias is great, right libtards? So good for the country,.....and Party.

 Knowing what you know now, do you regret your vote supporting President Bush's war on Iraq? Knowing only what you knew then that Saddam Hussein did possess WMDs, would you as president have made the same decision as Bush? What about it, Hillary?

 Knowing what you know now, do you stand by your support as his secretary of State of President Obama's hasty total troop withdrawal from Iraq that left the power vacuum now occupied by ISIS? Well? give us an answer!

 Would you call terrorists including members of ISIS followers of "radical Islam"? Just what are they then?

 Over the weekend ISIS captured Ramadi, the capital of Iraq's Anbar Province where U.S. forces suffered several thousand casualties. Are you satisfied with the slow-motion allied assault on this terrorist group? Another red line, Hillary?

 Knowing what you know now, would you as Obama's chief foreign policy architect still push for such a quick dumping of Egypt's President Mubarak that lead to the Muslim Brotherhood's assumption of power, economic chaos and the army's coup that your spokesman declined to call a coup? Well? Let's hear it right from your lips.

 Do you regret now your aggressive and successful advocacy of the Libyan war that ousted Gadhafi but left the country in lawlessness now exploited by radical Islam militias including ISIS? This is something we need to hear right from you, but will never be asked.

 Since your "reset" of relations with Russia, President Putin has annexed Crimea, fomented armed rebellion within Ukraine and provided no help curbing Iran's nuclear ambitions. Did anything good come from that reset beyond a photo-op? Yeah, but photo ops are IMPORTANT.

 Would you as commander-in-chief change Obama's policy and provide weapons to Ukraine, defensive or otherwise? Would you? Or just more "talk"?

 You were an ardent supporter of Obama's Trade Promotion Authority as secretary of State. Do you still support it fully? If not, what's changed your mind, besides your candidacy? For sure....where do you stand on it?

 Foreign policy is obviously a major responsibility of any president. Modesty aside, what would you claim as your top three foreign policy achievements at the State Department? This is the I would love to hear here.
