Is there anyone out there who would be interested in either purchasing or renting a nice big house where everyone could have their own privacy with a shared kitchen? This could be women, men, all ages and even if you have pets. Imagine it - a big place with an acre or so of land where good folks could co-mingle and have a lifestyle that we otherwise could not afford. A large home could be divided so that 4 or 5 or maybe even more apartments could be in the house and the payment or rent and the utilities would be so incredibly low when divided so many ways. So, we would all have our own personal living spaces and entryways to do whatever we wanted, whenever we wanted, but then we could have a nice kitchen and rest of the house to enjoy when we wanted the company of the housemates. If this is something you would like to do with your own house by having housemates, that's a good idea also. Or, we as a group could either rent or possibly purchase a house. If any of these ideas interest you, please.
