Looking for a long term sitter/nanny for my 22 month old son in our home. Ideally need someone willing to do the dinner/bath/bed routine with him and be willing to housesit until I can get home around 10pm. (Would be great for someone in school as you'd have time to study once he sleeps). This would not be everyday but maybe a couple times a week and over the weekend.

We do have two small dogs. While we don't expect you to care for them, you would need to be comfortable moving them in and out of the house and keeping an eye on them with our son.

You must have experience, preferably caring for an independent toddler. Also need reliable transportation to and from our home. Drug free/smoke free and please have references. Japanese speaking is a plus as we are a bilingual home. Please respond with a little about yourself, relevant prior experience, and availability.!
