I have 3 guinea pigs that need a new home. One young male and 2 adult females. male has separate cage so that they can't mate. 2 females are bonded and need to be sold together. They have a bigger cage. Each cage comes with water bottle and mount, food bowls, and huts for guinea pigs to sleep in. Also have a huge bag of bedding to get you started for a while, along with a big bag of hay and food. The females are the 2 fluffy ones with white, black and brown fur. male is black, white and blonde. Re-homing fee of 15 dollars per guinea pig. male and smaller cage with accessories all together for 40 dollars. The cage alone was 40 dollars new. Still has price tag sticker on it. Females with cage and accessories is 80 dollars. The cage for that one is much larger and was 100 dollars new. So basically you get everything for less than the price of one cage.
