I have a gorgeous captive bred half Sapphire half Super Green Baby Chinese Water Dragon.

He's about 5 months old. I say he because I purchased two of these Dragons from a clutch

For a breeding project I needed a male for and ended up with two Dragons who lately close to (sexual maturity) Now seem to really hate each other. The result of this has been one of my babies has a seriously bad shed or mbd not sure which. The other won't allow him pool or light access and unfortunately I've been extremely busy with things outside my home and Didn't realize this problem til today when I saw his limbs were lacking Circulation and have become swollen and redish.

He's free to a person that can allow me to bring him to his new habitat and sign a notarized adoption contract saying they will get him his help he needs. I'll pay the notary fee. This dragon is going to be gorgeous the Petco crap has nothing on this guy. This is a chance for a serious reptile keeper to have an amazing animal it took me a year of searching to find this quality of captive bred babies.

I just do not have the time to rehabilitate this poor guy atm and need him a great home he means too much to me I've raised him barely out of the egg til now this situation makes me sick. Before he got like this he was turning a amazing blue color.
