Young startup based in Baltimore/Washington area looking for the right person with marketing experience/education.

We have a product (web platform) targeted at a specific market. Initially we need someone to prepare market research and then to identify best approaches to introduce our product, set up relationships with target audience etc.

We are still in early stages and bootstrapping, so the pay isn't that of an established company, but this can turn into exciting opportunity for the right person. You can work at your own hours and meet with us when needed. If interested please shoot us an email.
