These two girls were rescued from an alley in the middle of winter, so glad to be alive and safe inside now. They are very good friends and should stay together as buddies. They are still kittens at heart and we estimate around a year and a half old at most.

Lily is super friendly to people, Lotus is a bit more retiring. They are playful and very good with their litter box, they love their climbing condo and snuggling with their foster mom. Unfortunately they need to move to a new foster or adoptive home asap as their current caretaker is allergic to them, so we are looking for a temporary or forever home as soon as possible.

The girls were both spayed and given initial rabies and distemper vaccines, as well as treated against fleas and microchipped, when they were rescued. We are an all volunteer group dedicated to finding loving homes for abandoned and homeless cats and kittens. We do have a small rehoming fee that helps to cover the cost for some of their veterinarian care. Please contact us for more information on fostering or adopting these two sweet girls, and thank you for your interest in helping homeless!
