Molly has a unique story. She comes to our organization after being abandoned in a kennel. She was pulled out of the animal shelter and awaiting an adopter when he just simply decided not to pick her up....and there she sat, in the kennel for 1 month before she came to us. Molly has been in a cage so long she can barely remember what it's like to feel grass on her feet or cuddle on the couch with someone. She really needs and craves a loving home and family to call her own. Molly is out going, energetic, friendly, confident, a little stubborn and smart. She walks great on a leash and rarely pulls. Molly has obviously had some training previously and is house trained. She is fixed and her shots are done. Molly has not been tested with other animals yet, but can be tested before adoption. Molly is currently fostered in Raymond, Maine.

If you are interested in Molly the next step is to fill out an adoption application at our website:
