We're looking for a loving permanent for home our sweet 1 1/2 year old pomeranian. I was told that she was a purebred pom but she is quite large at close to 15 lbs so I'mnot sure if that is actually the case. Regardless, she is beautiful and looks like a little fox! She is affectionate pup who likes nothing better than curling up in a lap. She is spayed, up to date on shots, and current on flea prevention. She knows "sit" but definitely needs basic obedience training. She does pretty well on leash. She is a typical pom in many ways. I didn't research enough about her breed before getting her and she's just not a good fit for our household. She isn't really into playing with toys, and when our terriers are playing fetch and tug of war she gets stressed and very yippy. She also barks at and chases our cats and chickens. She would definitely thrive in a quiet, mellow household where she wouldn't be left alone for long periods of time. She hasn't had experience with children. I want her to find her human "soul mate" while she's still young enough to bond fully and acclimate to a new home. We're asking a $175 rehoming fee, and will provide her crate and a starter supply of food . Please let us know a little about you, your lifestyle and your.
