Hi there!

I'm looking for someone passing through Santa Barbara and coming up to Seattle within the month of June, that might have a bit of extra room in their moving truck or large vehicle for a manzanita tree for my lizard! The tree is 64" tall and 30" wide at the widest part. It is NOT a live tree, so there will be no problem crossing state lines. It is fragile and would need a bit of protection in your truck not to get damaged. The tree is weighted in a square cement based container if that helps. I can send you a photo if interested and pay something to help with gas or trade a bike for your service.

Email me for more details. Thank you!
