Nurture Your Creative Heart

Would you like to try something new? Stretch your dormant creative muscles? Or maybe you already make art but you feel stuck in a creative rut.

Do you love art-making but don't have room in your home or time in your busy schedule to take a class? Whatever your situation, I'd love the opportunity to work with you.

Hi! I'm Kristen M. Watson, and I am a teaching artist with a home studio in Georgia. I am a mixed media artist, specializing in oil and acrylic painting, collage, and sculptural assemblage, as well as printmaking. I have degrees in studio art, and work as a teaching artist both in and out of the school setting. I hold a VT license in Art Education for PreK-12 with Highly Qualified Teacher status, and I have lots of experience teaching adults too. I show my work in juried shows and exhibits locally, regionally, and nationally, and my work is held in private and public collections.

I offer Private & Small Group Instruction, in my studio including the following:

Learn painting, photography, drawing, collage, printmaking, or small sculpture with me, at a time you choose.

My philosophy is to provide high quality art instruction in a supportive, learner-directed atmosphere. The goal is right brain stimulation, play, and enjoyment (see below).

I will organize my home studio

Provide constructive, supportive feedback on your art

Assist you with building and polishing your art portfolio (for college or prep school)

"Why should I consider this when I can just take a class?" you might ask...Well,

Private or small group instruction is flexible, designed to fit your schedule.

You'll be in a place you choose, somewhere comfortable, with no parking hassles and no schlepping supplies to and from class. It's all right there for you.

You'll learn and practice with a group of people you know (small group instruction).

Instruction is customized and personalized to your goals, your pace, and your skill set.

You get more for learning, more practice, more value for your money.

I offer a satisfaction guarantee on my instruction, so there's no risk. Art instruction also makes a great gift!

I can meet with you at my home studio in Georgia, VT, or at your home at a time that's convenient for you.

Instruction Fee: $60 for 1.5 hour sessions. Two students (Mom or Dad and child, couples, friends) is $80 for 1.5 hours and three students is $100.

Transport fee: $15 per session (for drive time, set up and tear down outside my studio).

I provide the non-consumable tools as needed (brushes, easels, and other items).

Visit my website to see my work and learn more about the possibilities, and contact me if you're interested in nurturing your creative heart.
