You think you are forcing your point but are really doing a great job of making ours.

Our point is that it's stupid to allow some who is hostile and dishonest to have any control of our careers or to allow people like you any kind of foothold in our lives and in all of your repeated attempts to counter us, you have been unable to come up with one single, intelligent or fair reason for your position. You obviously use control tractics, name calling and instults as a replacement for facts.

You seem to have a problem reading your own words. In your ORIGINAL POST you say what is wrong with doing "one thing and doing it well." That makes it very clear that you have a hard time understanding the concept that many musicians can do many things well as well as your bitterness that you are obviously not one of us.

As for your imagined ability to judge someone's "brightness"...well...that is funny considering you have never been able to come up with one single, honest fact or provided any indication that your emotional hysterics are anything but your own delusions. The fact is, you are a clear example of how stupid people just don't know you are.
