dainty 10 yr old 7 lb Tuxedo Female Manx (Cassie) needs new home. She's current on her shots and healthy with the exception of a squeaky voice. Vet says nothing serious. I have to find her a new home because I brought home a new cat several months ago and she has been thoroughly po'd about it. At this point, I feel like she's not going to forgive me. She apparently wants to be the only cat. She will sit in your lap (or on your belly in bed) and purr all day, but she's not big on being held close/cuddled. She's used to freedom through the pet door and is an occasional hunter; she has been known to bring in small critters. Free to a good single cat.
