Jitterbug was surrendered to the shelter at 9 years old cause they could not afford her bladder stone surgery. we have had that done and she is on the urinary s/o food now. she has had her teeth cleaned and a senior blood panel to make sure everything is working right.. the stone was the size of an ostrich egg. she is an awesome dog. she is great with kids, other dogs and cats she is spayed, all shots, hw negative, microchipped and comes with the rest of her food and a large bag of food will cost $59 just so you are aware of this cost as long as she stays on food the remainder of her life you wont ever have any problems with stones coming back adoption fee is $100 not even half of what we
