As another part of my "Ferret Facts" post, I also wanted to let all ferret owners know I take in unwanted ferrets. This means I you have any that you can no longer care for, or want, I will come get them. However, I can not pay for them, but I do not need any accessories. Reason I don't pay is not because I cannot afford it, but because you shouldn't put a price on their life. As part of rescuing, I will care for them then adopt them out to those willing to care for them forever and those who have done their research. For single ferrets, I adopt them to people already having at least one so no ferret is alone. This is something I do because I have dedicated my life to them, and want to help as many as possible. I have seen too many get pushed around all over this site, and ask please don't just shove them off to the first person offering money, please think of that life that you promised to care for when you took them home. I understand that life happens, so please allow me to care for them and take the time to find the perfect fit. I am available for questions and advice always! Please whoever is flagging this let me know why, I have read the rules and am not in any.
