I am a single professional male looking for a responsible roommate to share my living space. It makes no matter if you are male or female as long as personal space is respected.

I have 2 great dogs with special needs. I will be happy to share details with interested parties. Because of their medical needs, no other pets are allowed.

If interested please follow these instructions - email me with the word Brody in the subject line. If texting, please mention Brody in your message. Be sure to leave your contact information. I will get back to you promptly to set up a time to tour the house.
