The NADA Blue Book value base price of this 2010 Tre Amelia without any options is $9400 and this one has many expensive options and extras added to it, so it's one heck of a deal for what we're asking. If you're planning on doing a lot of traveling this summer, this camper is very cost efficient to tow because it is so lightweight. This Aliner Tre Amelia fiberglass camper is very streamlined and featherweight, and so easy to tow, it has been pampered and it is in fantastic condition, it looks just like new and it's as clean as a whistle. It's the perfect super lightweight camper to tow behind you for long cross country trips or pick up and go weekend or vacation getaways. This Tre Amelia only weighs 2300 pounds, so it's very easy to back up and maneuver. When you think about the kind of wear and tear that the mid size and larger campers can put on your vehicle and transmission, it's certainly a wonderful way to go. The Amelia is designed to be towed with most smaller to mid vehicles and it's equipped with everything you need to have a wonderful vacation. Unlike other compact featherweight campers under 2500 lbs., this fiberglass featherweight actually has an enclosed bathroom, complete with a flush toilet and sink, so you don't have to lug around a Porta Potty. It has all of the utilities that you would expect from a much larger camper, but without all of the unnecessary weight of a metal camper. This Amelia can easily be set up and leveled off by one person, with very little effort and strength in about 1 minute. This is one of the few Aliners that doesn't require folding up and down, this one remains up and is all set to go 24-7. It sleeps 3 adults comfortably and features: a full size 54" x 76" bed that remains set up in the front of the camper, it also has a fold down kitchen dinette that converts into another adult bed, all of the cushions are in excellent condition. This featherweight camper has a roof mounted air conditioner, 2 optional multi speed Fantastic Fans mounted in the crank open roof vent, one mounted over the kitchen dinette and one mounted in

 another optional roof vent in the bathroom, a microwave oven, a propane hot air furnace, with a wall heater, electronic controls, so the water heaters to full tanks as a 30 gallon tank top vent and a sink when sitting down trigger a fresh water pump tank, and a water pump, shower, water heater, plenty of storage both inside and outside the camper. You can turn on the outside lights which are located outside of the camper, there is also a fold up entry step at the back of the A-liner. There are tinted privacy screens throughout the Tre Amelia, that can be opened or vented like the camper as well as a screened inside way door, which can be opened, kind of storage cabinets both high and low and along storage close to hang your clothes. There are lockable storage doors on the outside of the camper, which will allow you to store a gas grille, hose, etc. The Tre Amelia has a DC inverter, so if you're not at a campground and you decide to camp off grid, where there is no electricity or water available, your covered, because the DC inverter will allow you to use the deep cycle battery mounted on the front	 A-liner 6 A-vent Camper	 A-liner 6 A-vent Camper	 A-liner 6 A-vent Camper	 A-liner 6 A-vent Camper	 A-liner 6 A-vent Camper	 A-liner 6 A-vent Camper	 A-liner 6 A-vent Camper

of the trailer hitch for electrical current. With the help of the DC inverter, deep cycle battery and the propane tanks and the onboard fresh water supply, you will still be able to operate just about everything in the camper when there is no AC electricity available, except for the large roof mounted air conditioner. So if decide to pull off the beaten path and spend the night to rest up on the way to your destination, feel free to. I am including an extra deep cycle battery with the camper. I also have a brand new extra air conditioner cowl and an brand new extra roof vent that are still in their boxes. These were purchased as emergency back ups when the camper was brand new, just in case a tree limb or debris were to fall and crack either off them. There are four really nice after market, bookshelf speakers strategically mounted both high and low around the kitchen dinette. Each pair of speakers is powered by their own individual power amps, which will allow you and your traveling companion to have your own set of amplified speakers, which you can hook up your mp3's, television, iPhones, etc., and amplify your devices. The Alina has a factory awning attached to the side of the camper, cable tv hook up, a spare tire is included too. The chrome wheel package was special ordered with this camper and the optional dual propane tank set up, along with a factory trailer hitch receiver, which is integrated into the rear frame of the camper and it is designed to mount your kayak and bike racks to. They thought of everything when they designed the Tre Amelia. I am not interested in trades, please leave your contact phone number and I will be happy to get back right to you by phone if you have any questions regarding the camper or you would like to set up an appointment to see it, thank.
