If your employer is contesting your un-employment and you believe you were fired for no reason and would like to appeal the decision, you have 15 days in which to file your appeal and have it post marked before the 15 days are up, do not let your time laps. You should be Represented by someone that is familiar and experienced in Administrative Law. Trying to represent yourself can be very difficult without the experience or back ground. I have been representing clients in the Administrative Law area for 29 years in Unemployment Appeal's and Petition's for Review. Most Hearings are held over the telephone and contact between the client can be handled over the phone or we can meet in person. If you represent yourself you have a fool for a client. My Fees are reasonable, I do require a retainer and if I win your case we will agree on a price that is fair. Please Call and let's talk about your case, Free Telephone,
