Calling all true Craftsman bungalow aficionados: are you tired of badly remodeled bungalows with ugly paint slathered on the woodwork? Welcome home to 2815 E 5th Street, a lovingly maintained yet tastefully updated classic expansive California bungalow originally envisioned in 1914. With a prime location in the Rose Park south neighborhood, this home shines brightly with its custom built-in buffet, bold boxed archways, original hardwood flooring, and pristine thick woodwork. There is plenty of room to sprawl out and enjoy; traverse from the living room, formal dining room, into the large kitchen. Space abounds in this charmer, there are three oversize bedrooms that are large and light filled; additionally, there is also a room that functions beautifully as a home office, artist workshop, or studio. Bring your friends and a bottle of wine; whimsical summer dinner parties are waiting to be had on the broad rear patio surrounded by lush landscaping. Parking woes begone; there is a spacious detached garage and extra-long driveway as well. You will enjoy this wonderful bungalow in an exceptional location close to Retro Row and the best of Long Beach for years to come! For more information, please call us at EXT 2319.
