Bassist available to jam or gig. Open to joining a semi-serious band, but nothing requiring daily practice or long tours. Have career but new to Baltimore and looking to play with folks either regularly/often or just occasionally, depending on the situation.

Can play all styles. I have an upright and an electric along with equipment, so either would be available depending on style preferences and venue. Great basses, so-so rigs - we work with what we've got. Self-taught but have been playing a long while and played pretty seriously in college/HS. Might need to get the chops back but I know what I'm doing. You'd be getting an enthusiastic and knowledgeable bassist for your band/jam buddy.

I'm in my mid-20s, quiet/bookish, but fun to be around. It wouldn't be the worst thing to make a few friends or get to know the scene even if nothing long-term happens in terms of a band or whatever. Give me a!
