Nub Culture is a new media website dedicated to creating shareable content. Whether journalistic, creative-fiction, comic, photography, video, or memes, Nub Culture seeks contributors who can develop independent and original content. Content will be promoted through our Spuarespace-powered website and social media outlets: Facebook, Instagram, Twitter and YouTube.

No experience is necessary. It may be preferred. Subject matter will be dictated by the contributor's interest.

This position is not paid and therefore does not involve deadlines. Though the position does not pay, letters of recommendation or professional referrals will be gladly given to a deserving contributor.

Editing will be kept to a minimum, as the voice of the contributor is of the most importance. Submissions will basically follow an accept or decline basis. Guidelines for writing will be dictated by The Associated Press Style book.

Official website launch is scheduled for August 1, but the website will seek to bulk up its content before official launch. Submitted work of non-timeliness can be recycled when official launch begins.

Please contact to inquire about becoming a contributor or for additional information on any matter.
