I am thinking about finding a new kitten to add to my family. Recently we lost my older male cat, he must've been hit and we're not really sure. I am actually trying to raise money to cremate him, so we have him in our large freezer until we can, but I am missing the third wheel to my cat family, and I am looking for a specific kind/breed.

I'm looking for either a grey and white tuxedo kitty. Male is preferred, but I'm okay with male or female. Or a black and white short haired american cat. The pictures with the person (aka me) in it is my cat that passed away, and we just really loved him and his breed, so anything like him or similar would be perfect. I can't really afford a re-homing fee, so free would be preferable. We can provide a great home. I have 2 small dogs and 2 other cats as well, so they'd need to be good with both.

If not already spayed/neutered/shots, thats totally okay too, we can get those eventually.

Please message me first, I never answer calls I don't know. :)
