Start-up website needs a polished writer to produce product descriptions and blog posts. Products displayed on the site will be typical consumer products found at big-box retailer websites; your job will be to write better product descriptions than any of them. Initially, we will need 1-2 descriptions and complementary blog posts each weekday, but that volume will increase with time. We are able to pay a nominal fee for these because we value good writing; at the same time, we are a start-up with limited funds. We will produce pages on big-ticket items in the initial stages (flooring, appliances, furniture, electronics, etc.). We will allow you to publish blog posts under your byline to build up your writing portfolio.

Please send us a short introduction and samples of your work along with your pay requirements. We look forward to hearing from.
