Robin is a gorgeous brown tiger cat who is very small and petite in size. She is roughly only around one year in age but sadly has already had a hard start in her short life. She was found living in the woods at a park and to make matters worse, was in the early stages of pregnancy. We scheduled an emergency spay appointment to have this taken care of. After her surgery, she was bleeding a large amount and we had to put her in a crate and keep her on ice. Throughout everything, she has remained just as sweet as can be. She loves meowing at you when you talk to her and she does come by her name. She enjoys being petted as much as possible and will purr up a storm. She is a pretty calm cat for the most part since she had to grow up so quickly. Now she is just looking for the perfect loving forever family to give her the attention she needs.
