Seeking individuals to share their work experiences for a social advocacy campaign. This could include television appearances, writing an op-ed, appearing on the initiative's website, attending a local event, and appearing in photographs. This is an opportunity to help improve an issue that affects us all!

Must be articulate, passionate and enjoy attention! Examples:

- You're working full-time job(s) and have others that rely on you, children or elderly adults
- You've been in a low-wage job for sometime now, with no prospect of mobility
- You hold multiple jobs to sustain a living
- You're a business owner who sees the value in treating your employees fairly and wants government policies to reflect this. i.e. paid time off, flexible work schedules
- You're looking for good employment and despite all your qualifications, keep hitting a dead end
- Home care, retail, factory, food service, office-job, any field really!

If interested, please send links to social media profile(s), along with the answer to at least two of the following questions in your own words. If we think you might be a good fit for the campaign, we'll be in touch!

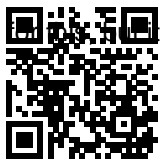

- * Does your job ever get in the way of what is important to you?
- * Describe a time your job negatively/positively affected your life
- * What does the American Dream mean to you?
- * If you had more work flexibility, how would your life improve?
- * Discuss a time work made you feel good?
- * What is different between a job & a career? Which do you have and how do you feel about that?
