Youtube link and others above direct you to a first attempt speed painting I created a while back, and also to my gallery and FB page where you can view some of my artwork also if you wish and connect with me, not top quality to some standards by any means...but it is something I have a passion for and is something I try to facilitate to not only better myself but also others/my environment, ect. Started about a few years ago off and on so i'm still relatively a novice but I thought it would be a decent idea to create a post where like-minded people who enjoy the arts&crafts, creative ideas-concepts, philosophies, ect could connect with me if they want & share some of their own experiences if they feel the need and want to participate in what i'm doing with this. I'm not posting this for financial purposes...Only to provide a creative influence and help form new ideas,concepts & perspectives. To any maliciously minded business entities out there that even think of spamming me, don't even try
