Hi. My name is Josh. Currently, I am living in BelAir, Maryland. My life just hasn't been the greatest here and I really want to start over. I've always loved the idea of living near the Gulf, so I've decided on Louisiana. I'm not sure what parts of Louisiana are the cheapest to live in and I'm also unsure about the job market there.

About me: I am 25 years old. I have a highschool diploma, as well as a certification in Fire Fighting. I am straight, single, and have no children; Nothing is really tying me here to Maryland. I am a hard worker and am willing to do just about anything as far as a job goes. I am honest, loyal, intelligent, and a fast learner.

If anyone out there can point me in the right direction or offer any sort of assistance in starting my life down there, please contact me as soon as possible. I really need this. I am really running out of hope here.

Any and all information or assistance will be welcomed and greatly appreciated. Thank you so much for reading this and God.
