The child is also located on the first floor, not the basement as many child daycares, and she has a view of the backyard with her equipment slide and swing set in summer months. She is also very close to a park.

When we first interviewed potential day care providers, one of the things that struck me is how often her "graduates" come back to visit, both parents and children, and how much the children love her even as they grow older. I now see that with my 3 year-old. I thought it was very telling that even after the children and parents left, they still felt very connected. Overall, I would highly recommend Kid Hat for home day care.
