I'm looking for people who like horses; you may have some horses of your own, or you might not have any but want to ride? I'm new in Casper & I would like to find some people who enjoy them as much as I do. I don't care if you rode/ride english, western, barrels, dressage, jump, rope, endurance ride, push cows, or hit some trails for fun, I'm not judgmental. Horse time is horse time no matter what your horse is trained to do.

I don't get enough horse time these days, & would love to have someone to ride with & tell me about their horse experience-- while enjoying the day riding! I used to work full-time as a farrier, trimming & chatting with awesome horse people & miss that. I'm a full-time, new mother; now that I don't have a big pregnancy belly rubbing against the saddle horn, & the baby is a bit older, it's time I started riding again!

I also drive my mare with a cart that seats 2, so if you want to be around my horses but don't necessarily want to ride, that is fine by me! My husband's horse is the blm mustang with the brands on his neck & hip (with no white), & my mare is the horse with the star on her forehead. They are both fun to ride, super mellow, but do have speed when they are asked to "get going." Jericho is the horse we always put our friends on, some were new riders, & some were experienced. They all loved him! Most of the pictures of them were from my computer, which were a few years old (I have all the newer pics on my phone) & the hooves were some of my work as a farrier, & were before a trim, then before the next trim several trims later to show how it transformed into a foot! Look forward to meeting some cool horse people!

Some of my favorite horse quotes:

Don't underestimate a horse's pride or he'll dent yours.
 Don't flatter yourself. I was looking at your horse.
