Jack was seized in a cruelty case with a bunch of other german shepherds. He was not in the best of shape when he was picked up but he is doing great now. He is still a little wild and excitable when he meets new people but that is to be expected because he was never taught any manners. He is not aggressive with people but introductions with any other dogs in the household are necessary because of his history. He is current on his shots, microchipped and he has been fixed. He has had no training so he will need somebody to work with him on a few things. He is going to be an awesome part of some new family!
