There are many processes out there to help leaders solve problems, manage change, and grow and innovate. But recently you may have heard of a newer approach that's circulating in the business-management landscape: design thinking. I use design thinking methodologies in my consulting project engagements and demonstrate actualization of concept use.

There are 3 rules: Define the problem. Explain your market opportunity. Build and Test.

Research - Analytics - Strategy - Insights - Planning Advisor - Brand Design Catalyst

Are you seeking a consultant or deciding whether it is worthwhile to speak with one?

Polina provides Market Research Consulting. This encompasses market research, forecasting, budgeting, personnel management, lifecycle management, professional development, product branding, start-up strategy development, and administrative processes.

I support the creation and execution of syndicated and custom market research reports for your business by

1. Conducting telephone and online interviews with leading technology suppliers, users and distribution channels
 2. Developing project infrastructure such as survey instruments, data collection instruments, market forecast models, value chains, etc.
 3. Creating market forecasts, vendor profiles and analysis reports for the IoT industry
 4. Identifying critical themes and implications in complex datasets and defining creative strategy alternatives and actionable recommendations
- Creating thoughtful and thought-provoking public content such as through blogs and webcasts
