 Creative freedom is welcomed.

When wanting these scenes to be recognized for their artistic nature, as you use the "artistic" image, which will generally contain raw sexuality (nudity anything pornographic) and deliberately sadistic, gory, and strident explicit rage.

The concept is this. We're going to shoot video clips solely for the creation of a variety of trailer-like films. That's primarily the extent of it. A variety of footage will be taken and pieced together into trailers for what may make others think they're for larger film projects. If they inspire larger works, great, but it's not the intended goal overall. For now, just want to do some shooting before the year is over. Please inquire for further details. The films/trailers won't be more than 75 seconds long. However, they will be episodes that are part of a larger story that is already in the process of telling. The central character has already been established.
