Do you sometimes feel as if there is no one to talk to? Do you keep things bottled up because it is hard to express yourself to those you know?

If there is a lot going on in your life, no matter the subject and you want an objective ear to vent to, keep reading!

Perhaps you feel as though you don't need therapy, but are frustrated with life in some way. You talk to your family and friends, but they misconstrue your message, or ignore what you are really trying to say. It always helps to know there is someone who will listen to you no matter what, and will give you undivided attention for an hour.

I am not a professional therapist or psychologist. I am simply a young woman who likes to hear what others have to say. If there is something on your mind that is eating you up, or a life event that others are tired of hearing about, then let me know! As an outsider to your story, my thoughts are unbiased and might be a breath of fresh air for you! Anything goes when it comes to listening, and you have my attention while you say what's on your mind. There is no hidden agenda, no unsolicited advice, and no diagnosing. I will sit quietly and listen to what YOU have to say. If you want my opinion, you let ME know, otherwise feel free to just keep talking! Sometimes it helps to just talk things through, and while you do, I'll be there to listen to you.

Reply to this post for rates (cheap!) and regulations. I would love to hear what's on your!
