Craigslist's "Gigs" page is pretty sordid and I was reluctant to place a legitimate post on this page since I might be perceived as some low life, weirdo looking for cheap thrills.

But here's the deal. I'm a 62 year old guy who has become fanatical about my new point and shoot digital camera. I'm finding that my Samsung performs beautifully and before I upgrade to a "real" camera and can get my hobby into full swing and "maybe" (high hopes I have) of progressing to professional level I would like to take some portrait photos - I adore black and white shots - and I'm looking for a female model who would work with me as a "muse" and collaborate with me so we can capture some fabulous shots.

There would be some partial nudity but I am of the opinion that discreet nudity is far more attractive than full nudity, since photography, like theater, should leave as much to the imagination as possible. I have added the type of photo that I would like to "focus" on.

So, if I don't sound like a predator and creep and weirdo and mass murderer - which I can prove I am not - I would love to hear from you, receive a photograph and then meet for coffee (please, not Starbucks...they bore me to tears) bring a huge personality. some edginess and smile and let's chat...if you are new to modeling, that is a bonus since I think I'd be intimidated by a professional who would find my amateurism irritating and laughable...let's learn the art of creativity together...slowly and tolerant of each other's learning curve.
