Hi!

My partner and I have a mobile app concept that's pretty unique and thought we would give it whirl to get it developed. This is an extremely novice idea that is really on the ground level of being baked through. We're both business professionals with full-time gigs but are looking to try this part-time project and see where it goes!

We're looking for someone who has developed an app before (either in their full-time job or on the side) and is willing to work with us on a project basis. We will be funding this out of pocket, so our price is nominal, but we absolutely will negotiate incentives as we build steam. We are both successful business professionals, one in marketing/communications and the other in financial consulting and entrepreneurship. We are hard-workers and have a great deal of faith in our idea!

If interested, send me an email with your resume, any example of graphics or web work you have done, and a short note as to why you're interested in working with us.

We look forward to bringing on a new partner!

Thanks in advance :)
