  Up for sale today is a 2008 Kawasaki Ninja 250, This bike has seen 3 owners. The bike is in great condition and was ALWAYS run on the maintenance schedule. The bike just passed 17,000 miles and had a checkup done at a local motorcycle store, nothing was found wrong and the bike is in perfect condition. Don't let the miles scare you! The bike has a ton of life still left in it! The previous owner let his girlfriend ride it so it was dropped on gravel, I didn't like the look of any rashed or worn down fairings so I purchased a brand new fairing set and had it painted OEM Kawasaki Green. The price is set at 2,100 due to many reasons, brand new fairings, Musarri Racing Exhaust, LED Turn signals, upgraded battery are just a few of the reasons that make this bike a awesome steal at $2,100. There is only a couple of small issues with the bike that are all cosmetic that could easily be fixed with a trip to the hardware store. This includes a few missing bolts on the windscreen, slightly bent shift lever and it could use a wash ;D. Both front and rear tires were replaced at the start of this season, rear tire is seieng a bit more wear but they are in good condition! The bike has a clean title. Here is a run down of some of the add-ons and new parts to the bike.

Musarri Racing Exhaust - $200
K&N Air Filter $60
New STOCK Exhaust Manifold - $100
LED Turn Signals w/ Relay - $30
Brand new OEM Green fairings - $600
New Left and Right Mirror - $50

and a bunch of other small add-ons!

PROS
-Cheap bike
-Tons of Extras for the bike
-Amazing sounding exhaust
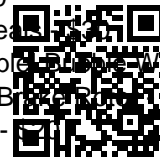

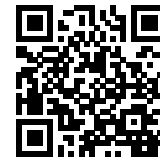

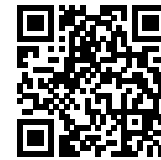

- Brand new fairings
- Looks brand new
- Gets tons of compliments
- Mechanically sound

CONS
- Missing a few bolts on fairings
- Slightly bent shift lever, has been bent back to properly work. (20 Dollar fix for a new lever)

These bikes are selling completely stock with no upgraded exhaust (something you need with this bike due to the stock exhaust sounding awful) for around 3,200 dollars, this is an excellent starter bike with a ton of mods for a cheap!
