3Elements Literary Review is seeking fiction, nonfiction, poetry, art, and photography submissions for our Winter/January issue.

Each quarter, three elements/words are given that must be incorporated into your story or poem. The rest of the story is completely up to you. If you choose to submit art or photography, we only require that you capture or depict the essence of one element.

The current elements are:
 Mania, Tower, Exposure

The deadline to submit your material to 3Elements Review is October 31. There are no submission or reading fees whatsoever.

For more information, and to review our submission guidelines, please visit us at www.3elementsreview.com/winter-submissions

All work must be submitted through our website. We do not accept submissions via email, or through this posting. Any questions should be fielded through our website as well.

Our latest issue which came out July 1 is available to read for free on our website. We archive all of our past issues as well.
