Have you ever wanted to learn to play drum set/percussion? Do you already play but want to improve? Do you know someone who wants to learn how to play drum set/percussion?

Here is some information about me: Ryan M. Smith is a Colorado musician, composer, teacher, and producer. He received his Bachelor of Music degree with a Concentration in Composition from Metropolitan State University of Denver in May of 2013 and graduated with Honors. Ryan plays in local music groups, teaches privately and with local music organizations, and enjoys writing a variety of music ranging from contemporary classical to popular styles. He aspires to help other musicians create their music by setting up a music production organization which will help them with recording, shows, songwriting, and more. Ryan's end goal is to bring people together and to help them better understand themselves and others using music as his medium.
