  As we head into fall and into the holiday season, we are approaching a new year, and with a new year we face new resolutions. One of the resolutions people tend to have is to start their own business. Being a fan of entrepreneurs, I want to support anyone planning to start a business by designing a website for free. A website is an extension of any business. It's where people can find you and purchase from you, use your services and support your endeavors. So while you are enjoying the changing of the leaves, eating Thanksgiving turkey and unwrapping presents at Christmas time, keep in mind that there is someone out there supporting your quest for a new year and is creating your internet persona for free. Just think, this time next year you can have a whole new life and I would be privilege to witness it. Also, if you currently have a business and need a website, please respond, I support every entrepreneur. Please specify what type of business you have or plan to have, what you hope to achieve in the new year and anything that can help me design a website that will be a perfect fit for you. You may ask, why am I giving away websites for free. Well respond and I will let you.
