Everywhere you see an building being built, there's a good chance there will be art hung there. Art consultant sell millions of pieces of art every year and we need peple to hang that art.

I am an industry insider and know where these art installer jobs are.

I will give you the person's contact info, you hang their art, then send me a small finder's fee when you get paid. Then I'll send you another name, and so it continues. When the client is a corporate provider they want to be billed and will pay in 30 days. I will invoice them and cut you the check.

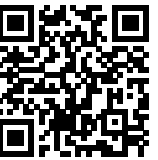

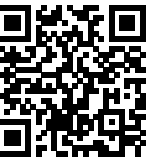

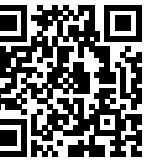

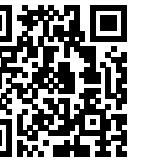

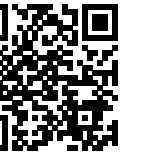

If you've got a good eye for design, I'm hoping you can help. Artists photographers and interior designers who understand layout and know what "eye-level" is are encouraged to apply. Standard hook and wire (using 2 hooks) is most common, followed by d-rings and sawtooth attachments. Sometimes we use a z-bar or 3 pt security.

I especially want to hear from you if you know 3 pt, standoffs and cable installations.

We don't want the client's walls looking like a dartboard, so you should be able to understand how to "nail" these challenges on the first try.

Does this make sense to you? If so, I want to hear from you . . . especially if you have liability insurance!
