This ad is intended to target mechanically-minded individuals who might enjoy fixing up a car for their own use or to resell for a profit. The interior and exterior of this vehicle are in great shape, except for an annoyingly-placed crack in the windshield. However, there are mechanical issues that will need to be dealt with eventually. They include:

- A significant oil leak
- The transmission sticks on occasion
- The car has overheated recently. It's been repaired, but there may be additional issues that caused the overheating.

It's drivable, so feel free to come test drive it. Email me if you are seriously interested in setting up a time to see it. However, I honestly don't know much about cars, so I probably won't be able to answer many mechanical inquiries.
