I am selling my two kittens due to moving complications. I had put a lot of time and effort into seeking out a breeder for these kittens. When I realized out move was going to be happening earlier than expected I didn't think it would really have any impact on owning the kittens. however over the past week between going back and fourth to storage, clearing the house, cleaning and moving into the new place I have realized that it would be best to re home this perfect pair. Its not that I can't handle them I just think its unfair to them, every time they get comfortable I have to move things around on them, too much stress and confusion on kittens.

They are all around a perfect little pair of beautiful black kittens. The mother was an all black cat that came from both a calico mother and father. A unique set of parents not to mention unusual to be producing a black cat. The father was a mix between a black cat(not sure of his parents and a black Bombay cat. I visited the breeders home location several times before committing to a investment. Finally when I was able to confirm I would have pick of the litter I requested two.

That is how they came into my life. They are about 12 weeks old and very healthy. They are brother and sister and are very much so attached to each other. They really have a adorably chronic case of monkey see monkey do and it has been this way since I have had them. They sleep on one another, each side by side and take turns one after another using the litter box

Kittens have been eating wellness kitten kibble dry food mixed with wellness kitten wet canned food since 8 weeks. They have been eating just wellness kitten dry food for about a week or so now

They have met many cats 8 weeks old and recently I had to do feline with two cats. I was told that the kittens each exposed to be they came home. I was told that a very healthy kitten was the kitten I was looking for. I was told that the kitten was a very healthy kitten.

They truly are nothing short of perfect. This makes it even harder to have to see them go because they really fit into my little animal kingdom of pets well and are exactly what I was looking for. However I am a life long animal lover and very knowledgeable of animals. With this being said I will not have any selfish desire to have these animals in my life impact their chance of utter happiness and over a mental and physical well being. My dog is 5 years old and has been exposed to a move in the past. As long as I seem content she's equally as happy. The kittens are too young and simply don't understand. I can tell that they're starting to be uneasy and concerned because they have been a bit more vocal over the past week. Mostly just for attention when your nearby.

Kittens come with a small sized metal cage. Like a miniature dog crate. Food bowls toys etc. Also come with a fairly new bag of kitten wellness dry food and a few cans of wellness kitten food.

I am not looking to make money, get money back or break even. I feel anyone interested and attracted to this opportunity will 100% understand and respect the cost of such a pair of kittens, such quality food and prior up bringing know that the price of a pet is really to ensure genuine interest and honest intentions in ownership and not just an attempt to obtain kittens to resell.

The kittens are free however they will only be sent off with all of their belongings as well as a good supply of food

Im looking for $200 obo for all of the kittens belongings and with that purchase you will be getting two wonderful kittens for free.

Thank you for your.
