Hello, I host a Podcast in which weekly cohosts and I discuss random LGBT news and different topics. More on the funny side.

I've been having a hard time getting friends and other people to commit to recording due to schedules and other reasons. I need someone who can commit at least twice a month to record two or three shows.

The Podcast is available on ITunes and two other podcasting sites. I am looking for someone who isn't easily offended and who is also at the same time aware of what they're saying without offending anyone. Someone with a huge sense of humor and who can commit long term. If you're shy, offensive and obviously not gay friendly this is probably not right for you.

A little about me, gay married female. I record from home I have a small office with my equipment that I record out of. I also have two very small dogs and a cat (just in case you're allergic)

Some of the topics we have discussed: marriage, coming out stories, transgender issues, food, lgbt news and laws, first kisses, crazy ex stories etc

If this sounds like something you maybe interested in please get back to:)
