Are you creative, intelligent, AND progressive-thinking? Are you open to a wide range of subject matter? Are you a good communicator and an idea person?

We're a small publisher, and we're working on a non-conventional project that spans multiple genres, including holistic health, reality, trauma recovery, and some light adult subject matter as well. We need people who are familiar with AND comfortable with each of these subject areas.

Women (ages 18 to 40's) are our target audience, which is why we're seeking a few local women to brainstorm with us on ways to improve our project message -- everything from the tone of our web site content to ideas for articles and better places to advertise.

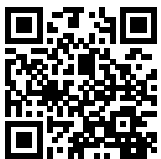

This will be an informal meeting, held at a local restaurant or coffee shop. We're hoping for a variety of perspectives (everything from college students to working professionals in their 20's, 30's, and 40's).

If you're creative, forward-thinking, and you'd like to be a part of this, we'd enjoy hearing from you. Bonus points if you know this area well and have lots of local contacts.
