If your website: Looks like it is from 1996, or worse, has a copyright year of anything before 2012, let's have a conversation. Makes you want to consume large portions of bottom shelf alcohol to "stop the burning", let's have a conversation. Has a "tramp stamp", aka your old web designer's signature classlessly placed in the footer, let's have a conversation. Uses flash (sigh), let's have a conversation. Delivers results more like Lebron James instead of Michael Jordan, let's have a conversation. Neglects the fact that 50% of users access the web via mobile and other small devices, let's have a conversation. Is on page 3,457 of Google, let's have a conversation. I know, I know. It's tough to swallow your pride and part ways with this mess. Having a crappy website is like being in a dysfunctional relationship: you relish the good times, but you need to be brave and say enough is enough. I'm not here to judge, though. I'm here to help you get over this bump in the road, so you can be happy again with your website and not hide behind it. Just know that I'm not a one-night-stand. I'm like a long-term rebound. I'm a web design, creative professional who can develop a kick-ass website, while incorporating marketing and strategic procedures that will provide your business sustenance and real results. If you have website woes, let's have a.
