We are BE. Magazine, a lifestyle website dedicated to empowering women to discover and become the realest versions of themselves. We publish articles on health and wellness, travel, hobbies and career, but we also focus on our profile series, which features real women accomplishing fantastic things--whether it's starting their own business, overcoming obstacles, or just standing up for what they believe is right.

In addition to growing our contributor base, we're also looking for passionate people to work with us as section editors. Editors would work with us to write articles, edit contributors, brainstorm ideas, and help us build and grow a brand.

Because we're new and still building, we can't pay editors right now, but we have a lot of ideas, and think with a solid team, we can get to that point! In the meantime, this would be a great experience for hobbyist writers, or people who want to develop or sharpen editorial skills, help shape a voice, and grow a strong website with a solid, positive message. We'll do whatever we can to help build portfolios, link back to personal blogs, etc.

If you're interested in contributing or coming on as editor, email us with some background info and a writing sample. We look forward to working with you!
