The Human-Computer Interaction lab of University of California, Santa Cruz is seeking participants to beta-test EmotiCal, a new, unique technology to improve well-being. EmotiCal provides analytics regarding what factors seem to most impact your mood and how your mood is expected to change over time. We are seeking pre-release beta-testers to try EmotiCal and give us feedback on what they like or dislike. This beta-test is entirely online. Participation begins mid-end October and is only for 13 days. This is an exciting opportunity to contribute to well-being research and in addition you may also enter a raffle for a $50 Amazon.com gift card for your participation.

If you are interested in joining the beta-test, please submit a secure sign-up form here (phone browser recommended): <http://victoriaholлис.com/emotical-fall-2015/>

For more information, you can email the coordinator of the study at vholлис "at" ucsc "dot" edu
