Hi my name is Rob and have found myself in a horrible situation. I'm 32 and have been a hard worker my entire life. I have three beautiful children and been supporting them and taken care of everything since I moved out at 16. Well recently I have had a freak accident happen. I was walking and tripped and fell on my knee and broke the bone underneath it. Well I had to have surgery they installed a plate and screws in my leg. Now the doctor said I can't do anything but rest it for 8 -12 weeks. So I can't work and am now in trouble. I have to make money some how to take care of myself and kids until I can get back to work. Never have been the type to ask for hand outs. So I am looking for some type of job I can do from home to make money. So if you or anyone you know that could help me please call, text, or email me. I would love to do it no matter the job just need to make some money to survive. Thank you for reading
